Sept. 26, 1959

At right we see Hickories Armada, supreme champion bull over all breeds at the 1957 Wisconsin Mid-Winter Futurity. This son of Louada Fearless is the sire of Lot 38.

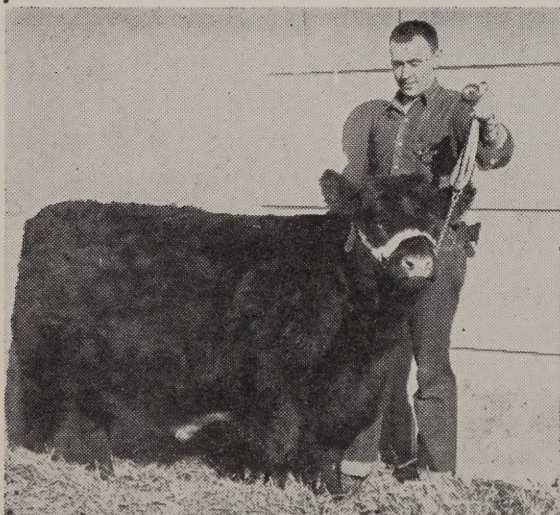

18 Bulls

26 Females

10 Commercial Females

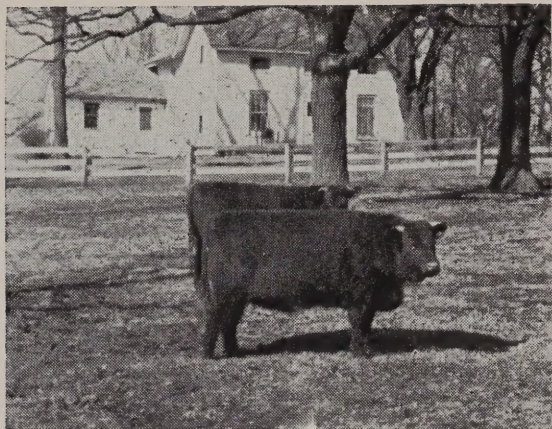

This is one of the most important annual sales to be established in recent years. This is because quality is high and because Southwestern Wisconsin cattle are profit makers. This year the offering is better than ever with more strong-aged bulls and real herd-foundation females. Some of the breed's top sires are represented in this offering . . . Louada Fearless, Blythwood Illuminator, Wernacres Chief Adonis, Marberdor Prefix, Marellbar Duplicator, Chapelton Copyright, Ringwell Prince Charles, Beaufort Bulldozer, Westmere Contribution, N-Bar Prince, Mercury's Control, Aldie Fanfare, Rockyford Silver Wedding and many others.

Southwestern Wisconsin Shorthorns have top "batting averages" in interbreed shows and in strong interstate sales. International winners, both carcass and on-hoof winnings, have been shown by breeders consigning to this sale. Many of these cattle have been shown in fairs earlier this year and have won high honors.

Be sure to attend this sale. Wisconsin Shorthorns do better because they are bred better.

At left we see Elmer Rule hold the Rule Bros. reserve supreme interbreed champion female at the 1957 Wisconsin Mid-Winter Futurity. She is Ruler's Daisy RR 2nd by Blythwood Illuminator. This winner is the dam of Lot 32.

Above we see two daughters of Louada Fearless. The heifer in the foreground is Hickories Augusta Brae 36th, champion female of the 1958 Wisconsin Mid-Winter Futurity. A member of this family and a daughter of Louada Fearless sells as Lot 22.

The crossbred steer at right produced the 1957 International interbreed grand champion carcass, seen below, for Elmer and Norman Rule. This steer was sired by Blythwood Illuminator. Elmer Rule sells a grandson and Norman and Terrill Lynn Rule each sells a granddaughter of this bull.

This is the carcass of the Rule steer seen above. The judging committee called this carcass "Unusually heavy muscled with desirably shaped rounds and loins." This is the kind of breeding you want to infuse in your herd.

HI VIEW ELECT—Grand champion Shorthorn bull and reserve supreme champion over all breeds at the 1959 Wisconsin Mid-Winter Futurity. His dam is a real producer and her heifer calf by Wernacres Chief Adonis will be in our show herd for 1960. We have mated him to a few heifers and know he is a sure breeder. We retain the right to use his semen which we have collected or else we would not part with this show winner.

Used in the famed Edellyn herd, 37 sons and daughters averaged $3,387 in Edellyn production sales with 37 more sons, daughters, grandsons and granddaughters averaging $1,471 in the Edellyn Dispersion. Two of these are sons of Marberdor Prefix and it is easy to see why Prefix sons have been top sellers in the past two Southwestern Wisconsin Sale. Why Shorthorns?

There is a reason why more and more profit-minded farmers, junior exhibitors and commercialmen are turning to Shorthorn production. Shorthorns give you the PLUS FEATURES of beef production
. . . . more pounds at weaning, greater weight-for-age, gentle dispositions, less health troubles and more efficient gains.
Besides this they produce prime carcasses
as proven by Mid-Winter Futurity, Iowa State Fair and International carcass contests. There is no breed that can beat Shorthorns when it comes to making profits. The Shorthorn industry is a growing industry with a great future.
Why not attend this sale and make your initial purchases? You won't be sorry.
